

Cookie Policy for Carter Ceiling's Website

Cookies are a small piece of text recorded by the website you visit. Cookies can be used to assist sites in remembering important information or preferences.

Functional Cookies

All the cookies listed below are required to allow our website to function as expected and these are considered essential or required by third parties (such as Google's reCAPTCHA technology) to enhance the safety and security of our website.

Some or all of these cookies may be stored in your browser, and you can manage these directly via your web browser settings

- Cookie_notice_accepted
This indicates that you have accepted the cookies on the site which stops the cookie notification appearing on every page. This is valid for a month once accepted.
- _GRECAPTCHA
We utilise the reCAPTCHA functionality from Google to indicate we put in safety measures to help prevent the website from receiving spam messages via our contact form. This operates in the background and ensures any form submitted is done so by a real person.

The cookie notification will appear on your first visit to the site and until you accept the cookie terms. Once accepted, the cookie message will appear for a period of one month. After expiration, or if you have cleared cookie information, the message will reappear asking you to accept again
